Your legacy gift assures the show will go on...

OVERTURE.ORG/SUPPORT
Your planned gift will ensure Overture creates extraordinary experiences for many years to come.

Philanthropic support expands Overture’s capacity to provide artistic experiences for the Madison community and beyond.

While many Overture donors choose to support the area of greatest need, you may direct your gift to benefit any Overture Center program. Because of the unique nature of restricted gifts, we ask that you please speak with a member of Overture’s Development staff if you wish to direct your gift to a particular area to ensure your wishes are properly reflected.

Making a lasting contribution...

GIFTS BY BEQUEST
One of the easiest ways to make a planned gift is a bequest in your will or revocable living trust. You can determine a specific amount, percentage, or residual gift bequest to Overture Center Foundation, Inc., the 501(c)(3) organization that operates Overture Center for the Arts. Your bequest can be made to honor a loved one, in your own name, or anonymously.

To make a general bequest trust to Overture’s annual fund, specific program, or Endowment Fund, simply include a clause directing a gift to Overture Center Foundation, Inc. If you already have a will, you can add a bequest with a supplement, called a codicil.

IRA & RETIREMENT PLANS
You may name Overture Center Foundation, Inc. as the beneficiary of an Individual Retirement Account or your employer’s pension plan. This gift may benefit you and your heirs by allowing you to manage these funds during your lifetime and reducing estate taxes.

LIFE INSURANCE
A gift of life insurance to Overture, through a new or existing policy, will give you an income tax deduction for the value of the policy when the gift is made, and income tax deductions for future premium payments.

CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITIES
A gift annuity is a contractual agreement whereby you transfer assets, such as cash or appreciated securities, to a specific charity. The contract provides you with fixed payments for life, or another individual of your choosing.

Gift annuities are popular income-producing gifts because they provide the donor with a charitable income deduction, possible estate tax savings, a fixed income for life, some tax-free income for a period of time, and possible capital gains tax savings.

ASSETS YOU CAN GIVE
Donors may use a wide variety of assets to support Overture: cash, securities, closely held stock, mutual fund shares, retirement plan assets, insurance policies, real estate or personal property, for example.

Before making a planned gift, please meet with your financial advisor to discuss your philanthropic objectives and types of gifts as well as income and tax implications.

We are proud to announce the creation of the Anderson Legacy Circle to recognize special friends who designate Overture Center in their estate planning, or through other planned giving methods. The Anderson Legacy Circle honors those visionary patrons who are dedicated to the performing and visual arts, and to ensuring the cultural vibrancy of Madison for years to come.

The Anderson Legacy Circle is named for Dr. Richard P. Anderson (1925-2014), a respected and beloved pediatric psychiatrist and emeritus professor at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine. A proud Madisonian, Dr. Anderson devoted his life to medicine, but was also committed to improving the artistic quality of life in his city. As a physician, he was influential in educating pediatricians about the link between a child's emotional and physical health. As a patron of the arts, he generously supported the Madison Symphony Orchestra and the Wisconsin Chamber Orchestra.

Dr. Anderson was also a collector of visual art; his collection began with an inheritance of pristine James J. Audubon engravings. His belief in Overture's importance to the city is visually present in the Audubon Room, where twenty-eight of these engravings are on permanent display.

Overture is grateful to members of the Anderson Legacy Circle for their commitment today to tomorrow's audiences.
